THE PRINTER.
On newspapers throughout the land
He hammers keys in bliss;
They need him and his helping hand.
He even set up this.
Of course, sometimes they make a slip.
But that's all in the game;
The printer's only human, and
He means well just the same.

DELIGHTFULLY ENTERTAINED
FOR BRIDE-ELECT

On Saturday afternoon last, Misses Johnson, Sutherland and Owens entertained their many friends. Special interest centers about Miss Owens just now, since she will be a charming December bride. Miss Johnson's home, where the reception was given, has that rare, undefinable something which we call atmosphere, created by its rare old portraits, mahogany and objects d'art, and never did it lend a more artistic background for the house party and the two hundred callers, who made the rounds of the parlors, than on Saturday.

The hostesses were assisted by a bevy of gracious matrons and graceful maids. Among the house party were Mesdames Marshall, Philip Kemper, J. Foster Barbour, Thomas A. Duke, J. M. Zeigler, Leigh W. Robertson, C. M. Phister, W. G. Lewis, Clarence Wood, Mrs. Henry Pogue, Mrs. George Wood Owens and Misses Shale Armstrong, Margaret Owens, Agnes Shanklin, Annabelle Lewis, Lucie Smith and Mary D. Poyntz.

Miss Elizabeth Graham Barbour and Mr. Emil Rosen, from the Conservatory of Music of Cincinnati, two most brilliant young artists, rendered exquisite musical numbers throughout the afternoon. Mr. Rosen's voice is a tenor of rare quality, while Miss Barbour has few rivals as a pianist. The candle-lighted rooms, the flowers, the music, the pretty girls and the delightful hostesses, made the afternoon a very happy one, while the fair young bride-elect was a veritable incarnation of youth and beauty.

THE EARLY BIRDS.

The Chenoweth Drug Company and the Five and Ten Cent store have made ready for Christmas. Their decorations are artistic and produce a pleasing effect. It will not be many days until all the stores will be decorated. Christmas is the best day of the year, the most joyous time. Let all help to make this Christmas the best Maysville has ever enjoyed.

"Buy It in Maysville This Year"

A NUISANCE.

On East Second street every day are to be seen two little boys, dirty, unkempt and ragged. The older of the two doesn't say much, but the little one generally asks for a nickel. When questioned they have a nice little story to tell of a sick mother, sick father or baby.

On Monday a kind-hearted lady of the East End fixed up a nice bit of food. Imagine her surprise as she watched the pair of youngsters when they go around in an alley throw away her nicely prepared food. They went a little farther and asked a gentleman for a nickel to buy a loaf of bread for their mother. They got the nickel, but what became of it? It would be well for the police to do a little quiet work on the case.

RIGHT IN THE STREET.

Several weeks ago the contractors building the new Liberty warehouse moved a house out of the path of the structure, setting it in the middle of Poplar street, where it still remains, blocking traffic and making it very disagreeable for those who use Poplar street as a short way to Forest avenue. The house should be removed from its present location.

Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock, County Judge W. H. Rice married Herman Easton, aged 23, and Virginia Harney, aged 21, both of Harrison county.

ELECTRICAL PROSPERITY

This Week Being Celebrated All Over the United States As Electrical Prosperity Week—It Is Also Being Fittingly Observed At the Electric Shop.

Electrical Prosperity Week, a week set aside to show the wonders of electricity, is now being observed all over the United States. Never behind in anything for the instruction and benefit of the people, Maysville is also doing her share in this country-wide event, through the efforts of the Electric Shop, of which Mr. George Hill and brother are the proprietors. Messrs. Hill have secured an expert demonstrator, who is this week showing the wonders of electricity by giving demonstrations at their store every day this week.

Electricity, the greatest wonder-worker in the whole world, can do tricks that would make the imaginary antics of the mythological gods seem dull stuff. He can send a message with the air as a medium, far beyond the world over which Jove pretended to rule. He could have furnished Ajax with appliances which the mighty warrior could have successfully defied the gods' lightning. But he is only a mighty wonder-worker. He is a member of your household. He is at every hand in making the home a thing of radiant comfort and of almost instantaneous convenience. He can aid you now in ways of which you never dreamed. He promises to be your cook and housekeeper as well as the Ariel that brings the voices of friends to you and the Puck-like imp that turns the lights on and off at a button's bidding.

Look at Maysville today and compare it with the city of twenty years ago. Electric lights glow with a brilliant radiance from hundreds of homes and stores. Along the streets electric signs are telling their messages. Electric traction cars, electric automobiles and other vehicles, started if now now propelled by electricity, crowd the street. From the telegraph offices the heat and pulse of the world flashes, bringing glad news and sad from every corner of the earth. Overhead the telephones are carrying many voices.

A wonder-worker who can accomplish these present, vivid facts, should be able to give you something worth knowing. You will miss these great things if you do not see the demonstrations at the Electric Shop.

Following is the program of events for the rest of the week:

Tuesday—Power table day.

Wednesday—Percolator, toaster and grill demonstration; coffee and toast served.

Thursday—Fireless cooker day.

Friday—Electric iron, vibrator and hair dryer.

Saturday—Washing day.

Will Short, drunk and disorderly, $10.50.

Cal Bradford, drunk and disorderly, $10.50.

IN A MUDDLE.

The newly elected Council, which meets Monday night for its first regular session, promises to be, from their actions in the recent caucuses, far from a smooth-running organization. At the last caucus several of the members arose and marched out of the place of meeting. As it stands it is now the old "six and six."

Following are the revenue assignments for the month of December: H. E. Pogue Distilling Company—B. B. Politt, day; Frank Harting, additional.

ELKS' MINSTRELS

Big Home Talent Production Will Be Given Wednesday Evening At Washington Opera House.

When the curtain rolls up at the Washington Opera House Wednesday evening and the big Elks' minstrels are under way, the residents of Maysville will see one of the best home talent productions ever given in this city. After seeing several of the rehearsals we are in a position to make this statement.

The show will start with the usual minstrel opening. Dr. J. Allan Dodson will act as interlocutor to six of the funniest endmen ever gathered together in a home production. Messrs. Herman Calvert, Edward Duley, Robert Hofflich, Nelson Bratton, Lawrence Frost and Andrew January are the endmen and if this sextet can not make you laugh there is some need of your seeing a doctor.

Sandwiched between some of the side-splitting jokes of these black face artists, popular ballads will be sung by Messrs. Frank Nash, Emil Weber, Raymond Muse, John Fagin and Hall Strode. These balladists will have a chorus of thirty selected singers in support, and a musical treat in store for all who attend the big show.

The olio, or second part of the minstrel, is composed of a series of short sketches opened by Mr. Charlie Trumble, the "Sixth Ward Jester," who has a black-face act that will make many a smile. He is followed by the "Black Castle," Messrs. Robert Hofflich and Albert Caproni. These gentlemen have made a name individually as classy dancers in this vicinity, but this is the first time they have ever been seen in public together. Their act is one of the features of the show and is well worth the price of admission alone.

After them comes the sketch of the "Collier's Weekly Boys." Messrs. Withrow and Oakes. This act is a scream and will be sure to receive a good hand from the audience. Lawrence Frost and Louis Schatzman will complete the olio with one of their famous black-face sketches. Their acts measure up to their reputation, which is as good a recommendation as can be found.

After them the third and last act of the minstrel, the dancing wizards Manager Munzing has gathered together for this act the leading buck-and-wing dancers of the city and the show ends with some dancing that will not be forgotten.

During the show the following orchestra will render some special music: C. Ed. Geisel, bass viol; Miss Stella Archdeacon and Dr. P. G. Smoot, violins; Arthur Munzing, cornet; Alex Ellis, trombone; John Kane, clarinet; J. W. Lee, piccolo; Claire Boyer, drums, and Neal Hubbard, piano.

THE RURAL CREDIT PROBLEM.

President Wilson is again urging Congressmen to establish a rural credit system, and the agricultural sections are demanding action.

It is, of course, possible that illusory hopes have been held out to the farmers of the low interest rates to be secured under a rural credits organization. The fact that European farmers borrow money for 3 to 4 per cent in this way does not prove the same thing can be done here. Interest rates have always been low abroad. The inquiry for such an organization would cost more in a country of higher salaries, and the American farmer would pay a higher rate on his money.

Still the American farmer is assessed too high a rate for his borrowings. Lending companies make too much money. Their service as intermediary is necessary to give the borrower security that the property is duly examined and supervised. But many little companies are doing this business on too small a scale for an economical result. Their charge for their service is too high.

The average lender on farm mortgages probably gets about 6 per cent. If the business were standardized, supervised and consolidated, so that a farm loan would look as good as a railroad bond the lender might be satisfied with 5 per cent. The borrower would have to pay the intermediary service of the rural credit organization, and it is not likely that he will pay less than 6 per cent.

Some of the farmers, particularly in the East, may get their loans now for 6 per cent. But the chances are that the majority pay 7 to 8 per cent, including commissions and discounts. This is too much. If this rate could be lowered by rural credit organizations, young men would be encouraged to take up farming, and one charge on food production reduced.

It sometimes costs $20 per to see a big football game, but the competitors in the literary contests have to ask their friends to come and make up the audience.

POPULAR SONGS.

J. Fred Helf, author of "Everybody Works But Father," and more than a hundred other popular songs, has just died at Liberty, N. Y. Nearly everybody in the United States has been familiar with a number of his compositions. Yet probably not one person in 10,000 ever heard of his name. It is an anonymous and evanescent kind of fame.

The contagion of popular songs of this type is something marvelous. Enterprising publishers distribute them to every music store in the land, and within a week all the picture theaters, minstrel and burlesque shows are trying them out. In another week they have been heard by millions of people, and their infectious melodies are heard on every street.

Unfortunately these transient compositions take the place of the fine old songs that every one used to know. The crowd that used to get together on door steps and sing "Swanee River" and "Ben Bolt" have long ago lost their voices. The young folks know not the words and scarcely the airs of these classics. Nothing that is more than three months old is up to their pace, and the market for the songs of this type seems illimitable. It must be admitted that they have a very catchy snap.

Do not be afraid to stand when talking to a friend. Life is too short for long sits.

Now let's forget Mexico—for an hour or two.

Fun---Well Done

One On Billy.

Billy Sunday stopped a newsboy in Philadelphia one day and inquired the way to the postoffice. "Up on block and turn to the left," said the boy. "You seen a bright little fellow," said Sunday. "Do you know who I am?" "Nope!" "I'm Billy Sunday, and if you come to my meeting tonight I'll show you the way to heaven." "Aw, go on!" answered the youngster; "you didn't even know the way to the postoffice."

Modern Conveniences.

A standard but still haughty "leading lady" was obliged to put up at a dilapidated country hotel. She glanced frowningly about the office, reluctantly signed the register and took the brass key from the proprietress.

"Is there water in my room?" she demanded. "Why there was," replied the proprietress. "There was, but I had the roof fixed."

Real Worth vs. Low Cost

If you asked your butcher for a porterhouse steak and he handed you a cut of the flank and said, "This doesn't cost as much and is just as good," you wouldn't believe him, would you?

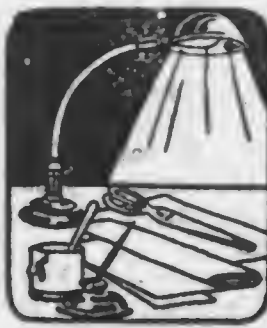

Yet the butcher's statement is just as truthful as the assertion that inferior baking powders made of alum or phosphate of lime are as good as Royal, which is made from cream of tartar.

Alum is a mineral acid salt, declared by many medical authorities unsafe to use in food.

Royal Baking Powder is as pure and wholesome as the vineyard grapes from which its cream of tartar is derived.

The only reason for using such substitutes as alum and lime phosphate is because their cost is less to the manufacturer.

The Coils of School Children

The extent to which their children have to study their lessons at home is a matter of anxiety to many parents. When a youngster finds himself up against the tough nuts of the latter part of the arithmetic, he has to do some pretty solid work. He is very apt to get tired, nervous and irritable. His parents deplore the overwork and cramming of the schools.

An experienced and gifted teacher puts it as his belief, based on many years of teaching, that boys and girls in the ninth grade of school can fairly be expected to do about an hour and a half a day of home work, but should not be expected to do more than that.

Teachers in many of the higher grade schools complain bitterly of the lack of preparation of the children that come to them. They are lame in arithmetic and write in an illiterate manner. In well conducted schools a special effort is made in the eighth or ninth grades to remedy these defects of the lower grade work. That means incessant drill, so that performing the processes correctly becomes a matter of habit.

Where the strain and nervousness comes in is principally because so many people, both children and grown ups, are naturally inaccurate. The father and mother who set out to help the boy do those tough examples in measurements and partial payments, are quite as likely to make mistakes as the youngster. In doing the big multiplications and divisions it is very easy to make some trifling error that will invalidate the whole process. It excites one's sympathy to see a child having these first struggles with the obstacles and difficulties of life. But it is a necessary part of experience. Arithmetic work is a splendid training in accuracy of detail work which is one of the best qualifications for success in any kind of career. Where children can be properly graded, so that the higher ones can be given an amount of work equal to their powers, while the more backward ones shall not be overloaded, better results are obtained with less friction.

Strange to say although Yale was so terribly overwhelmed at football, neither the president of the college, nor the faculty have as yet been asked to hand in their resignations.

After sending a boy to college to acquire fame by his brains, one finds it much more apt to come through the length of his drop-kick.

Basketball is considered a game developing great quickness of thought, and it has to be or you couldn't slug the other fellows while the referee is not looking.

The Books of Fables published every year for the holiday gift trade would not seem complete without including the official bulletins of the warring powers.

Some people are now economizing for Christmas by adjourning payment of the grocers' bill until after New Year's.

ITEMS FROM ALL AROUND

No Birds.

(Danville Messenger.)
 It now looks as though the prediction of a short crop of birds was correct. Many local pot-hunters have been in the field, but can find very few quail. Several reasons for this condition are given.

Bank Merger.

(Dawson Tribune.)
 The Bank of Dawson and the Commercial Bank have consolidated and will be known as Commercial Bank of Dawson in the future. The business of the new bank will be carried on at the Commercial Bank building on Main street.

Denied Buildings.

(Hopkinsville Kentuckian.)
 Among the many towns denied public buildings under a new retraction order are the following in Kentucky: Harboursville, Central City, Elizabethtown, Eminence, Falmouth, Glasgow, Harrodsburg, Hodgenville, Lancaster, Madisonville, Marion, Pikeville, Palmisville and Prestonsburg.

Bailey Paid His Bet.

(Carlisle County News.)
 Just before the election Frank Bailey says to Tom Shelbourne, says he: "If Stanley is elected as Governor I'll ride you in a wheelbarrow from the postoffice to J. W. Turk's corner, provided you will work in the shafts of the same vehicle, with myself as the passenger. In the event that Morrow is elected," Mr. Shelbourne agreed and Wednesday morning Mr. Bailey hitched himself to a wheelbarrow, slid up to the pavement in front of the postoffice and after Mr. Shelbourne was safely seated, the trip down the street was made safely. The trip was not a "some one" by any means, as practically everybody in town was in the procession.

Something Easier.

(Falmouth Outlook.)
 Another old tobacco grower, after years spent in worming and suckering tobacco, has gotten the second sight, and is building a large chicken house, aiming to devote the rest of his days to watching his prize Plymouth Rocks and Rhode Island Reds scratch dirt for a living. Clark Thomas, of Caddo, is constructing a big chicken house to take the place of his tobacco barns, and he is going to raise chickens instead of tobacco worms.

Rare Volumes.

(Danville Advocate.)
 Dr. D. L. Thomas, head of the English department of Center College, and also president of the Kentucky Folklore Society, found some precious volumes at Mr. Freeman's yesterday which he immediately purchased. The most valuable among them were Johnson's Dictionary and other books that belonged to the Rev. Jeremiah Chamberlain, the first president of Center College; also several volumes that were once the property of Samuel McDowell, father of the still more famous Ephraim McDowell.

Remembered Benefactor.

(Hopkinsville Kentuckian.)
 A number of years ago Louis Loupons, a Russian Jew, walked into Franklin, Ky., with a pack on his back, peddling articles of household goods. He decided to locate and was assisted by M. S. Harris, cashier of the Simpson County Bank, who took a great fancy to Loupons and tired him over financially when he was in straits. He prospered and some time ago moved to Tulsa, Okla. The other day he died from wounds self-inflicted and left his entire estate by will, including an insurance policy of $5,000, to Mr. Harris. He did not have any relatives in this country.

The Common Salvation

By REV. B. B. SUTCLIFFE
 Assistant Superintendent of Miss. Moody Bible Institute of Chicago

TEXT—The common salvation.—John 3.

Each word of this text is important. Let us think of them, taking the last one first.

1. Salvation.—We have space to mention only three things suggested by this word. Salvation means a saving from a sickness and a restoration to health; for sin is a disease. A common biblical symbol of sin is leprosy, an incurable and loathsome disease. There is much similarity between this and sin. For instance: there are many so-called remedies for leprosy but none can be found to really stop its spread. The sinner too has many remedies for his sin but nothing that men can do can arrest its progress. Again, leprosy becomes painful and distressing. Sin acts the same way. Hence we are told that "the wicked are like the troubled sea when it cannot rest, whose waters cast up mire and dirt. There is no peace, saith my God to the wicked." Sin begins quietly but ends, like leprosy, with bitter pain and distress. Again, leprosy is fatal to the one afflicted. It might well be called a living death. It is thus with sin. Many are today well and sound of body, but sorely afflicted by sin. As far as their souls are concerned they are in a living death. The difference between the leper and the sinner is that the former gets rid of his trouble at death, but the latter must take his pain and distress with him. But salvation means the saving from sin to perfect health. Man alone can find no cure for his sin but Christ can and has. It is found in his own blood which "cleanseth us from all sin."

In the second place salvation means a saving from punishment; for sin is a crime as well as a disease. Salvation brings to the sinner a full and free pardon for every crime against the law of God; such a pardon that every trace of the evil committed is wiped from the sinner's record. Without such salvation the punishment for each sin must fall upon the sinner. And the punishment of sin is an awful thing: described as being tormented and anguish and that eternal. But in this common salvation there is found relief from all the guilt, and pardon for every crime. "Let the sinner forsake his way and the unrighteous man his thoughts and let him return unto the Lord and he will have mercy upon him and to our God for he will abundantly pardon."

In the third place salvation means the saving from death which is the result of the disease and the reward of the crime. It means the exchanging of eternal death for eternal life. "The wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord." If any should enquire how this health instead of sickness, this pardon instead of guilt, and this life instead of death can be obtained, the apostle answers, "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved."

2. Common.—The "common" salvation suggests its wideness and means that it is shared by all alike. God is no respecter of persons and when he provided the common salvation he provided it to be shared by all alike. Whether white or black, moral or immoral, learned or illiterate, cultured or vulgar, all share alike in this "common" salvation. Again, this word means that the salvation is a universal thing. It is provided for every member of the human race. This is what the apostle means when he says, "whosoever will call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved." And, the last chapter of the Bible says, "Whoever will, let him take of the water of life freely." The common salvation means that which is needed by all, provided for all, brought to all and offered to all, including the reader of these lines.

3. The.—This word speaks of the narrowness of the "common" salvation of the wideness. It is not "a" salvation, but "the." It is not provided by man, nor can it be. It is just here that sinners go wrong and think they can evolve some scheme whereby they can cure themselves of the disease and do enough good deeds to counterbalance the evil and so avoid the punishment due to sin. But if we would have the salvation that saves from the disease of sin, and the pardon that covers the crime of sin, we must come to the Lord, with whom salvation is to be found. "God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son that whosoever believeth on him should not perish but have everlasting life." And when the Son came to be the Savior of men "he gave himself for us, that he might redeem us from all iniquity." He took the sin and all its consequences, the crime and all its punishment, and gives to all who will receive it "the common salvation" in their place.

COLOMBIAN INVENTS NOVEL GLIDER

One of the queerest objects to be dubbed a boat is the Yolanda II, a low-flying, rubber craft, which promises to bring about a change in inland water traffic as Robert Fulton's Clermont did in 1807, when she made her way up the Hudson river without sails. The boat, which is a development of the hydroplane idea, is the invention of Gonzalo Mejia (shown above), a Colombian banker, who has the contract to carry mails for the Colombian government up the Magdalena river, Colombia. When not in motion, the Yolanda II draws five inches of water, but as soon as the big retractors whir the boat glides over the surface with an inch or less of draught, at a maximum speed of 50 miles an hour.

I keep Black-Draught on hand all the time now, and when my children feel a little bad, they ask me for a dose, and it does them more good than any medicine they ever tried.

We never have a long spell of sickness in our family, since we commenced using Black-Draught.

Theodor's Black-Draught is purely vegetable, and has been found to regulate weak stomachs, aid digestion, relieve indigestion, colic, wind, nausea, headache, sick stomach, and similar symptoms.

It has been in constant use for more than 70 years, and has benefited more than a million people.

WASHINGTON LETTER

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

A Queer Mix-Up.

A curious mix-up, which has produced friction in the President's cabinet, doubtless has hampered the government's efforts to apprehend and punish those conspirators who have been engaged in efforts to blow up American and other ships carrying munitions of war and which, if Congress does its duty, may develop into a scandal of proportions, has come to light following the arrest by the Secret Service of Robert Fay and his associates. The Secret Service is, of course, the proper corps to deal with offenses of this kind, but it develops that the "Trust Busters" attached to the Department of Justice, under the supervision of A. Bruce Bielaski, have been doing most of this character of work, although in announcements to the public it has been stated that it was being done by the State Department. Fay and his associates, however, were first arrested by the New York police, with which department William J. Flynn, head of the Secret Service, was formerly connected. The New York police turned Fay et al. over to Flynn and he promptly employed an extra force of men to run down the other conspirators and the "men higher up."

Although the Secret Service is in the Treasury Department, Secretary McAdoo objected. So did Bielaski and Attorney General Gregory. There began to circulate ugly stories of efforts by the administration to shield certain of its friends who were among the "higher ups." Flynn pursued his work and there arose a question as to where he procured the funds to carry it on. Then it was discovered that the Secretary of War, who, apparently, distrusts the work of Bielaski and his subordinates, had found some funds which he had placed at the disposal of Flynn. It is understood that Mr. McAdoo has now ordered Flynn to abandon the task, while Attorney General Gregory has appointed to the States to carry on the task on the ground that the Federal laws are inadequate. The real facts may never be disclosed. In view of the powerful influences being exerted to suppress them, but if they are it will result in a mighty scandal, altogether too close to the head of the administration to be comfortable. Congress should put Secretary Garrison on the stand.

GOOD THINGS.

Here is an old and well-tried sponge cake that will be liked by those who possess ten eggs to try it:

Great Grandmother's Sponge Cake.—To the beaten yolks of ten eggs add a pint of granulated sugar; beat until very light, then add a cupful of cold water and a pint of sifted flour, one-half a lemon, juice and rind; beat thoroughly together and then carefully fold in the stiffly beaten white. Pour into a deep pan and bake in a moderate oven.

October is the time to buy canned goods for winter as the canning season is over. The price per can is considerably less when purchased in quantity and your dealer will be glad to take your order. Never buy cans that have bulged, as this shows the contents to be fermenting, or do not buy cans that have been resoldered, showing that they have worked and been recoked.

When using canned goods the entire contents of the can should be turned out at once, as any of the food exposed to the air in the tin causes decomposition and makes the food unwholesome. Most of the cases of ptomaine poisoning are caused by lack of attending to this important duty.

Snowball Pudding.—Beat the yolks of three eggs until light, then add gradually one cupful of granulated sugar, beating all the while. When light, add two tablespoonfuls of milk, one cupful of flour, sifted with a teaspoonful of baking powder. Fold in the whites of the eggs beaten stiff. Fill buttered cups two-thirds full and steam 20 minutes. Roll in powdered sugar and serve with foamy fruit sauce.

Foamy Fruit Sauce.—Put three tablespoonfuls of any jam or marmalade into a saucepan, add the juice of a lemon, and a cup of boiling water. Bring to the boiling point, sweeten to taste, add a tablespoonful each of four and butter, boil until smooth, then fold in the beaten white of an egg. Serve at once.

It seems strange that some people will keep on speaking of "useless army posts," when the money distributed through them helps the Congressmen from those districts to get re-elected.

In case an invading army should land on our shores, it would not be sufficient defense to have the school children come out and sing "Kind words will never die."

Winton Spencer Churchill, the brilliant young English statesman, who recently quit the cabinet for the army, is 41 years old today. Since the days of Pitt England has not developed such a precocious leader. And it is long since she had such a romantic, many-sided minister. When the storm of criticism of his conduct of the office of First Lord of the Admiralty broke over him a few weeks ago, Churchill was not caught napping. He refused to be the "goat," as American slang puts it, and he paid back with a vengeance. He was a member of the British sea warfare that were laid to him. Then he spectacularly resigned from the cabinet and joined his regiment at the front in France. Churchill was born on November 30, 1874, the product of an Anglo-American union. His father was the late Lord Randolph Henry Spencer Churchill, and his mother was formerly Miss Jennie Jerome, daughter of the late Leonard Jerome, of New York, and a cousin of William Travers Jerome, former District Attorney of New York. Young Churchill was educated at Harrow and Sandhurst and entered the army. He longed for adventure, and so went to Cuba and joined the Spanish forces there, winning a decoration. Then he went to India and earned other medals. He became a war correspondent in the Egyptian campaign and later in South Africa. During the latter campaign he was taken prisoner, but escaped after six weeks. On his return he won a seat in Parliament. He was made Under Secretary of State for the Colonies in 1906, and two years later president of the Board of Trade. In 1910 he became Home Secretary. In 1911 he was called to the office of First Lord of the Admiralty, and the height of his career was reached when the breaking out of the European war last year found the British fleet prepared and gathered in the North sea. Later developments brought bitter criticism, particularly against the Dardanelles campaign which the British navy inaugurated and the dispatch of the disastrous expedition to Belgium. Churchill was blamed, whether rightly or wrongly, and when the coalition cabinet was formed last May, he was reduced to the chancellorship of the Duchy of Lancaster. But his adventurous nature would not permit of inactivity or the poignancy of his critics, and so he is a soldier again. Andreas Dippel, famous tenor and operatic manager, who recently became a naturalized American citizen, 49 years old today.

An Unfit Senator.

"Farmer Jim" Martine, United States Senator from New Jersey, has come bluntly into the open and proved his own unfitness to be Senator. Senator Martine, apparently forgetting that the power of speech could make him, has expressed to newspaper interviewers his great surprise that President Wilson should have conferred with Governor Fielder and State Chairman Grosscup for the purpose of picking a Senator to succeed him. Mr. Martine, because, as he naively explains, the New Jersey primary law provides that the voters shall select the candidate. "This law was passed in Mr. Wilson's administration as Governor," says the injured Mr. Martine, "and he was looked upon as abolishing the old boss system of selecting candidates." Of course, it was so looked upon by the people—and that such was the intention of Governor Wilson, for whom the law made many votes. But that was not the intention of Mr. Wilson, then or now, and the fact that Mr. Martine has been closely associated with Mr. Wilson, during his term as Governor and later as President, without realizing that it is only the Republicans who have bosses, while the Democrats are "statesmen," and the further fact that Mr. Wilson has as much contempt for popular rule as he had when he was Governor of New Jersey, conclusively mark Mr. Martine as a man of too dull perceptions to serve his party usefully in the United States Senate. Mr. Martine so completely fails to understand the Wilson system of dictatorial "leadership" that it is no wonder that Mr. Wilson summoned the New Jersey party "leaders" to select another man for Mr. Martine's shoes.

Daniels, Discipline and Demagoguery.

"Aside from giving us ships and men we must get action from Congress that will let the navy conduct its own affairs. The reason that we are so inadequately prepared is that the navy has been the 'ham bone' of the politicians." These were the expressions of Commander Yates Stirling, U. S. N., before certain patriotic societies in Philadelphia. Secretary Daniels had not yet seen an authenticated report of Commander Stirling's remarks, to-day, so it is still impossible to announce when the commander's trial by court-martial will take place. Commander Stirling may not have been thinking of Secretary Daniels, but he could not have shot straighter if he had been. The very day these remarks were delivered Mr. Daniels had set aside the finding of a court-martial, the members of which court he had himself chosen, because their finding was not in accordance with his preconceived ideas. Of the effect on the discipline of the navy of Secretary Daniels' course any intelligent citizen can judge. Of the infinite number of instances where Mr. Daniels has thrown discipline to the winds and guided his course solely by the principle of political expediency, and the furtherance of his own political ambitions, or of the extent of his contribution to the inefficiency of the ships and men and his responsibility for extravagance of administration, the voters probably will never know. These things are known to naval officers and the President, but the former dare not tell and the President does not care to because he regards Mr. Daniels as useful in retaining the loyalty of the Bryan wing of the Democracy.

Waiting For You

Do you know that in this town and farming community there are many hard families who buy a majority of their goods in Maysville, from some merchant or other?

Do you know that YOU might just as well have a large percentage of this business and do you know that this business is SPOT CASH because the people HAVE THE MONEY and are NOT AFRAID TO SPEND IT?

Do you know that to get this business you must FIRST REACH THE PEOPLE and then know WHAT YOU HAVE?

Do you know that there is no other paper published that reaches these people as thoroughly and as effectively and with as tight a grip as THE PUBLIC LEDGER does?

The buyers in this community are an intelligent class of people, and they insist on knowing something about the goods before they part with their money.

Your advertisement in THE LEDGER will appeal to them because it is THEIR OWN PAPER, and because they KNOW that we do not accept questionable advertisements at any price.

The holiday season, a harvest for merchants, is now on and our people will be buying in large quantities.

Because we feel that you are keen on getting a goodly slice of this business a representative of THE LEDGER will take the liberty of calling upon you within a few days, at which time he will illustrate to you more fully the advantages to be derived from placing a portion of your holiday advertising before a class of people who buy liberally and have the money with which to pay.

Very truly yours,

AUSTRIANS CLEANING UP TOWN OF JAZEBOW

Effective work is being done in various sections of the battle-swept region by the Austrian sanitation corps. This photograph graphically portrays the condition of the town of Jazebow just after the battle. The streets were littered with ruins, and in many places were found the corpses of defenders, vanquished and those who were not combatants, eager to flee from the scene. A detail from the Austrian sanitation corps is seen setting off on its "cleaning up" work. Behind it is a group of returning refugees.

PISTOL DUEL

Ended In Death of One of the Participants—Prominent Lawrence County Men Settle Grudge.

Webb Holt, a prominent young man of Busseyville, six miles from Louisa, shot and fatally wounded William Davis Friday night about 9 o'clock.

Davis had been down the river and returned on the evening train and had gotten an automobile and gone to Busseyville. When he reached there he decided to return to Louisa. His wife and son insisted that he remain at home and when he refused, they got into the car to go with him. They had driven only a short distance when they met Holt. A few words were exchanged and one shot fired by each, which resulted in almost instant death to Davis. The shot entered the lower part of the face and came out at the base of the brain.

Mr. Davis was field manager for the Venable Oil & Gas Company, and Mr. Holt held the same position with the Busseyville Oil & Gas Company, and it is said they had not been on friendly terms for several months.

Mr. Davis went there from Weston, W. Va., about two years ago and was well thought of by his acquaintances. He leaves a wife and son, who witnessed the sad death.

Mr. Holt is a young man, unmarried, of excellent character, sober, industrious, and of most excellent standing in Lawrence county, born and reared at Busseyville, a son of the late Bernard Holt, and a brother of the County Clerk Holt, of Louisa.

BURLEY WAREHOUSE BEING DISMANTLED.

(Mt. Olive Tribune Democrat.) The large steel warehouse on Bridgeville pike, near town, the property of the Burley Tobacco Company, is being dismantled and will be moved to Lexington, where it is said it will be re-erected and used in connection with the Burley Tobacco Company's loose leaf warehouse in that city. It is an immense affair, 60x200 feet, and is the largest warehouse ever built in Robertson county. It was most substantially built, and reasonably cared for, would have lasted a century or more. The original cost of the structure is said to have been $4,500, but one like it could not be built now for nearly twice this amount, owing to the great advance in the price of metal used in its construction.

BREATHITT COUNTY WOMAN SUBVIVED BY 273 DESCENDANTS.

Relatives have received news of the death at Ponce de Leon, Breathitt county, of Mrs. Elizabeth Gabbard, familiarly known to the people of the upper Kentucky river valley as "Aunt Lizzie" Gabbard, aged 84 years. She leaves three generations, numbering in all 273 descendants. They include nine children, ninety grandchildren and 174 great-grandchildren.

She was a native of Clay county, Ky., and located in Breathitt county seventy years ago, when that section was a wilderness. She married Michael Gabbard sixty years ago, who died December 22, 1904.

About 700 head of cattle were on the market at the Hamilton stockyards in Winchester Monday. A number of mules exchanged hands on the streets, prices ranging from $135 to $200.

The average attendance for the month is 925. The same month last year had an average of 910, and in 1913 an average of 858. The two chief reasons for this increase are the unusually good weather and the absence of epidemics in any form.

As the season for inclement weather is now beginning, we trust that the parents will co-operate with the teachers in every way in maintaining regular and punctual attendance.

location at the First District building had a splendid get-together meeting. The teachers and children had worked hard during spare moments in preparing a program that was much appreciated by the crowded house. The receipts for the evening were a little over $40. This money is being used to maintain the penny luncheon that has been serving nutritious and appetizing food to a large percentage of the pupils. When I was down to this program and saw the large crowd of interested patrons mingling in a friendly and jovial conversation, pertaining chiefly to the school and how best to improve it, I could not but feel grateful to the many who attended and especially to the few whose labors had brought such results.

That association has accomplished much since its inception, but to do that it has been too heavy a strain on them. While it is the more glory for the few who have accomplished so much single handed, yet I know that they will appreciate more of the mothers of the district rallying to their support. It was gratifying to see the large number present from the Forest Avenue Association, who aided materially in the social and financial success of the evening.
